NOVEMBER IS CAREER DEVELOPMENT MONTH

Hello Black Educators,

Welcome to November! This month, as we reflect on the journey of growth and gratitude, we're excited to focus on National Career Development Month. For Black educators, career development isn't just about moving up; it's about deepening impact, creating pathways for our students, and uplifting our communities.

This month's newsletter celebrates your commitment to shaping the future and provides resources to support your professional journey. Whether you're seeking inspiration, looking to expand your network, or exploring new strategies for your classroom, we're here to empower you every step of the way.

Let's honor our collective growth, keep pushing boundaries, and make this November a month of meaningful career development!

This month, we shout out our 2024 Black Male Teacher of the Year and Black Male Administrator of the Year:

- Dr. Chris Carter, Seattle Public Schools Executive Director of Southwest Region, the Black Male Administrator of the Year.
- Alex Rankin, South Shore K-8 Extended Resource Teacher, the Black Male Educator of the Year.

"THE EDUPURIST PODCAST"

This podcast explores educational practices through the lens of equity and inclusivity. The hosts tackle issues such as systemic barriers, culturally responsive teaching, and the importance of Black voices in the field.

Available on Apple Podcasts.

BlackTeacherHub.com

This is an online platform for Black educators dedicated to sharing resources, materials, employment opportunities, and evidence-based practices specifically tailored for Black Educators and Black students.

ACE is looking for Black educators who are willing to share curriculum, lesson plans, and other relevant information with other Black educators who are looking to better support their students of color.

We are looking for materials and items relevant to black history, literature, STEM, mental health, and culture for a Black educators to have when teaching students of color to better support them, such as:

- lesson plans (ex. plan for 1 entire lesson in the given subject matter)
- evidence based practices (ex. PBIS, SEL, CRT)
- teaching tools (ex. The African American History Archive, Blackpast.org)
- employment opportunities (ex. schools/programs hiring aspiring or current black educators)
- educators looking to/for mentorship
- articles/research/data (ex. Journal of African American Males in Education)
